Greenbelt Library Still On Horizon

The construction of a local library in Greenbelt is currently under consideration by county officials. The size of a bond issue—and the specific libraries to be constructed with such funds—are the issues to be considered Jan. 6 at a meeting of the County Commissioners and County Library Board. The ensuing recommendations will be presented to the Prince Georges County Delegation at a public hearing in Upper Marlboro on Wednesday, Jan. 13 at 8 p.m.

Greenbelt has been on the verge of receiving new library facilities for several years, only to slip down the priority ladder notch by notch. The currently emerging Greenbelt Master Plan—a joint product of the Advisory Planning Board, professional planners, the City Council and Greenbelt's citizens and organizations—provides for a library in the Greenbelt Center. The Jan. 13 hearing gives the community one more chance to make its case to the state legislators.

Hopefully, the county officials will present specific proposals that will aid Greenbelt's goal. Greenbelters interested in adequate library facilities for Greenbelt are urging attendance at the Jan. 13 hearing. People needing transportation are asked to call Simonson, 474-9349 or Geller 474-6323.

Another Gas Station For Beltway Plaza

Another gas station has been approved for the Beltway Plaza although no traffic lights have yet been provided. Despite the protests of Greenbelt City Council, the Prince Georges County Board of Commissioners, sitting as the District Council, on Dec. 29 voted unanimously to permit the construction of a gasoline service station at the Plaza fronting on Greenbelt road across from 59th Avenue.

The successful petitioner was First National Realty Corporation—developer of Beltway Plaza—which sought a special exception since part of the service station site was zoned commercial (C-2). The District Council ruled that there was no justifiable reason to deny the application inasmuch as part of the site is presently zoned light industry which would permit erection of a filling station without a special exception.

At hearings on December 18 representatives of the city urged that the petition be denied until such time as the traffic situation on Greenbelt Road is improved by the installation of traffic signals. The city objected to the increased traffic that would be generated by a second gasoline station on the premises of the Beltway Plaza Shopping Center.

Proposed Beltway Plaza Light Deadlocked In Payment Dispute

by Al & Elaine Skolnik

What is causing the delay in the installation of traffic signals at the entrance to S. Klein on Greenbelt Road? On Aug. 26, 1964, the State Roads Commission (SRC) authorized the installation of a two-phase, semi-actuated signal with actuated left turns at the entrance of Beltway Plaza Shopping Center opposite Cunningham Drive.

The stumbling block has been the cost—estimated at $7,000. Since August, a squabble has been going on as to who should foot the bill. In the meantime, more than a score of accidents have been reported at the intersection and S. Klein's has been paying hundreds of dollars for special policemen to handle traffic at the entrance during peak hours.

State Roads Commission

While SRC under law is directed to install and maintain traffic control devices on State highways such as Greenbelt Road, the SRC's position is that its responsibility was discharged when it issued a permit for entrance to the shopping center which included the stipulation that the developer of Beltway Plaza—First National Realty Corporation—would assume responsibility for traffic control devices.

The SRC states that its general policy is to require shopping center developers to bear the installation and maintenance cost of signalization to serve private development. According to the

TRAFFIC SIGNALS ON AGENDA

The subject of traffic controls on Greenbelt Road is on the city council meeting agenda for Monday, January 11, and will be discussed then.

SRC, no shopping center has legally protested this policy. It notes that most developers request signals at their expense as part of the overall development and cites the following cases in which traffic lights were installed at the developer's expense: Prince Georges Plaza; Capital Plaza; Co-op Shopping Center; Giant Foods (Rts 193, 650); Marlow Heights Shopping Center, Eastpoint Shopping Center; Farmers Market; and Reisterstown Shopping Center.

First National Realty

The developer, First National Realty, points out that its request for an entrance permit in no way constituted a waiver of its rights to contest the provision of the permit requiring it to install and maintain the signal. It has a letter from SRC which acknowledges its rights to contest. The developer's attorney cites Maryland statute which places the responsibility for traffic control upon the SRC or local traffic authorities.

First National Realty also feels that the considerable taxes it pays the State and City of Greenbelt should cover the costs of any traffic controls. The SRC, however, argues that the need for signalization was created by the construction and operation of the shopping center, as the streets opposite the shopping center entrances are very lightly traveled.

City's Position

All westbound traffic lanes on Greenbelt Road lie within the city boundaries of Greenbelt; the eastbound lanes within the town of Berwyn Heights.

The City's position is that since Greenbelt Road is a State highway, the responsibility for traffic control does not lie with the city. Moreover, there are no city-maintained roads adjacent to the shopping center as there are town-maintained roads of Berwyn Heights outside the shopping center.

Local residents note with interest that earlier this year the SRC installed a light at the intersection of 58th Avenue and Greenbelt Road opposite the A. H. Smith Sand and Gravel Company and the newly constructed branch of Citizens Bank of Maryland.

SRC paid three-fourths of the cost of this light; the county the balance. The SRC justifies its payment on the grounds that both 58th Avenue (Md. 251) and Greenbelt Road (Md. 193) are State highways. The county paid one-fourth because the road north of the intersection was old Branchville Road—a county highway.

The Greenbelt Junior Chamber of Commerce (JAYCEES) is trying to break the impasse. It feels strongly that a traffic light must be installed before someone is killed. A special committee under the leadership of Harold A. Siegel, 16 Maplewood Court, has arranged a face-to-face meeting this week with representatives of the interested parties to seek the most immediate means of securing the lights. The committee has also asked the American Automobile Association if it could offer its assistance in breaking the deadlock. Other members of the committee are Donald Olverson, George Strachan, and Melvin Kent.

Meeting on Poverty Role

A public meeting to discuss Greenbelt's role in the war on poverty will be held in the Municipal Building at 8 p.m. tonight. Participants in a panel discussion are Virgil Hampton, Director of Prince Georges County Board of Welfare; Arthur Calhoun, Director of the Hyattsville office of the Maryland State Employment Service; Cecil Ryan, Director of Prince Georges County Health and Welfare Council; Miss Flynn of the Board of Education; Atlee Shidler of the United Planning Organization and Dr. Thomas Kelly, administrative assistant to the County Commissioners. All Greenbelters are urged to attend.

RAPID TRANSIT MEETING

The National Capital Regional Planning Council will hold a special meeting to discuss the proposed rapid transit system for the Metropolitan area. Organization, financial aspects, and compatibility with present zoning plans will be on the agenda.

The meeting will be held on Monday, Jan. 11 at 1:30 p.m. in the Conference Room of the National Capital Planning Commission, 1701 Pennsylvania Avenue N.W.

The Greenbelt Library Story

by Dorothy Sucher

GREENBELTERS ARE GREAT READERS

This is the first in a series of articles on Greenbelt's library and its problems.

To a Greenbelter, the most interesting statistic in the 1964 annual report of the Prince Georges County Memorial Library doesn't appear in the report at all. It's the statistic revealing actual use of the library by the citizens in its vicinity; that is, the per capita circulation of books. A little simple arithmetic, however, reveals the following surprising fact. Greenbelt, with the smallest population of any county library district, is by far the most active library in the county, on a percentage basis. Nevertheless, the future of the Greenbelt branch is very much in doubt.

Greenbelt's per capita circulation of books is 5.3 annually. In other words, Greenbelters (every man, woman, and child) borrowed an average of 5.3 books from the local branch library in 1963-4. How does this compare with the rest of the county?

County Circulation

The average per capita circulation was 3.2 for the rest of the county in 1963-4. By branches, this was: District Heights, Marlboro, and Suitland, 3.1 each, Accokeek, 3.2; Forest Heights, 3.8; Laurel, 4.2; and Hyattsville, 4.9. The Hyattsville branch, with a per capita circulation of 4.9, came closest to Greenbelt's record. This branch was (until the opening of the new regional library in Hyattsville last March) the county's largest library, occupying a three-story building, containing a strong reference division, many periodicals, and a number of special collections, such as the ones on business, education, and Marylandia. With several large rooms, comfortable chairs and tables, an average staff of 7 1/4 (compared to Greenbelt's 2 3/4), the Hyattsville branch was a welcoming place and deservedly popular. It has been reduced in size and scope since the opening of the new Regional Library, and may close.

Located in School

Yet even the Hyattsville library was surpassed in activity by the Greenbelt branch. How can we account for this? The physical plant? Hardly. Located in a room of the Center School, our Library even lacks such a simple thing as a sign outside saying "Library" to inform the passer-by that it exists! And it's a commonplace occurrence for the Greenbelt librarians to be told by local residents who have somehow discovered it for the first time, "Why, I never knew there was a library in Greenbelt at all!"

The Greenbelt branch is described in the following way by the staff of the county system in a 1963 publication: "This branch, located in Greenbelt elementary school, is extremely crowded, and operates on a different hourly schedule than the school. However, because it is located in a school, it has attendant problems of heat, light, janitor services. In addition, adults frequently have a psychological block about entering libraries located in schools. (Ed. note: our emphasis). Moreover, it may become necessary for the school to use the library space for classroom or other school purposes."

Chance For New Library

Is Greenbelt to have a new library in the near future? This question may be decided on January 13 at the County Courthouse, Upper Marlboro, at a public meeting of the county commissioners with the county's delegates to the state legislature. Commissioner Gladys Spellman will be presenting a request from the Prince Georges County Memorial Library for a $5,000,000 bond to construct five new libraries in the next two years. Greenbelt is said to be on the list of priorities, following the proposed Southern Regional and Bel Air branches.

Greenbelt is known as a "library town" in the county—yet visible public support is required at the meeting to underline Greenbelt's need for expanded library facilities. A well-reasoned, well-prepared statement of Greenbelt's case should help the county commissioners evaluate that need.

The provisions of the Greenbelt Master Plan ought to be mentioned in that statement, particularly as regards the proposed new roads linking Old Greenbelt directly with Springhill Lake and other housing developments on the outskirts of town. Mrs. John J. Dunn, President of the Board of Library Trustees, stated recently that the main barrier to locating a new Greenbelt library in the Center is the present limited access from the surrounding area.

The Master Plan is a step in the direction of improving the road situation, and as such it should be brought to the commissioners' attention during their deliberations on library construction.

Letters to the Editor

Thanks News Review

As chairman of Prince Georges County, American Red Cross Bloodmobile program, I am most grateful to the News Review for the very fine editorial and news release in the Dec. 31st issue. My attention has been called to the omission in the news release of the assistance to the blood program rendered by members of the Woman's Club of Greenbelt as volunteer workers, not only at the Greenbelt operation but throughout the County. Members of the Woman's Club are presently working with the Women's Group of the Jewish Community Center and the Greenbelt Lions Club to make the January 11th bloodmobile at Klein's Department Store a success.

LIFE'S LITTLE DRAMAS

1. The Garage

"Hello, this is Mrs. X calling. Is my car ready yet?"
"What was the trouble, Ma'am?"
"I told you, the gas pedal sticks."
"Give us a call in a couple of hours. I'll see what we can do."

"Hello, this is Mrs. X again. How is my car?"

"We didn't have any trouble starting it at all."

"I didn't either, my trouble was that the gas pedal sticks."

"Oh, would you please call back in the afternoon?"

"Hello, this is Mrs. X. Is my car finished?"

"What did you say was wrong with it?"

"The gas pedal sticks."

"The trouble is probably in the fuel pump or the carburetor. We won't be able to get to it today. Would you give us a ring in the morning?"

"Hello, this is Mrs. X. I've just got to have my car today."

"I think we can have it ready. We figured out what was causing your trouble."

"Oh, good! What was it?"

"The gas pedal sticks."

2. The Party

"All right, dear, you can have a birthday party if you agree to invite no more than six children."

All Greenbelters who are able to give blood are asked by the Lion's Club to donate at the Red Cross Bloodmobile which will be at Klein's Dept. Store this Monday, January 11th, 3-7:45 p.m.

Please donate Monday in the name of the Lion's Club. The blood you give may save a life.

SIREN TEST JAN. 9

Warning sirens in the Washington area will be sounded for approximately 90 seconds each at 11:45 a.m., Jan. 9, in a quarterly test by the Office of Civil Defense.

The alert signal, a steady tone, will sound for 90 seconds, followed by one minute of silence. The same sustained alert sound would be used in event of probable attack, except the siren would sound for five minutes in an actual emergency.

After the minute of silence, the take-cover signal will be sounded, a rising and falling warbling sound that will last for another 90 seconds. In a real emergency this signal would operate for three minutes and would mean an attack is considered imminent.

"Oh, thank you, I'm getting too old for big parties anyway. I'll just have Sue and her sister, the Smith twins, Roy, and Tommy."

(That evening)

"Mother, Debby was at Sue's house when I delivered my invitation so I just had to invite her to be polite. I know you didn't want me to be rude. And I almost forgot, Ellie said she'd invite me to her party if I invited her to mine. I knew you wouldn't mind."

(Next day)

"Mom, just one more wouldn't make a difference, would it? We have a new girl at school and I wanted to make her feel at home so I invited her."

(Later)

"Guess who's back in town! The Carters! You always liked Sherry, Mom, so I knew you wouldn't mind if I invited her. I guess her little brothers will come, too. But don't worry, they're much better than they used to be."

(Still later)

"Mother! I forgot to invite Jeanie. I'll just die if I can't have her. She's practically my best friend and besides she gave me the biggest present last year."

(And still later)

"Hello, is this the bakery? I'd like to order a cake. For about twenty, I guess. Maybe you'd better make it 24."

CO-OP "BIRTHDAY PARTY"

The Co-op Homemakers Open House plans a "Birthday Party" on Friday, January 15, at 10:30 in the Co-op Hospitality Room to honor Mrs. Ethel Rosenzweig, wife of GCS president, and others with January birthdays. Co-op's head baker, Lawn Shorter, will demonstrate cake decorating, and cake and coffee will be served to all who come. The public is invited.

Women's Slimnastics classes along with Children's Story-telling are now being held at the Community House each Tuesday and Thursday from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. So stay in shape and take a break, simultaneously.

The Door Decorations Contest, which was judged by members of the Greenbelt Art Guild, was won by Frank and Lorna McRae of 6229 Springhill Drive. Second and third places respectively went to the Lester Bittenbenders of 6207 Springhill Drive and the Thomas Roses of 9236 Edmonston Road. Congratulations to the winners and all the participants for helping to make Springhill Lake that much brighter.

Tap dance and ballet lessons are now being held each Thursday afternoon at the Community House. There are three groups—pre-school, pre-teens, and teenagers. Classes start at 1:30 p.m. for the pre-schoolers.

Note well. As of December 17 parking is not permitted on the east side of Edmonston Road, south of Springhill Drive. Cars parked there will be ticketed by city police.

Recreation Review

by Richard Stevenson
Director of Recreation
Help Wanted!

Each Friday and Saturday night, the Recreation Department sponsors a Teen Club Dance for the teenagers of Greenbelt. The Junior Teen Club Director, Miss Hughes, and Senior Teen Club Director, Mr. Collins, have worked hard to offer interesting and active programs for the club members. Much time is spent by Miss Hughes and Mr. Collins in developing these programs, but each week there is a certain element missing from the activity. This missing element is parental assistance as chaperones.

If you have a teenage son or daughter who participates in the Teen Club, please lend a hand when you are called. If you are interested and haven't been called to chaperon, why not call us at 474-6878. It doesn't hurt to help your own and other's children. Remember, if every parent whose child is in the Teen Club chaperons in turn, you only need to help us once a year.

Boys' Basketball

Last Sunday night, in the Boys' "B" League, the four-way tie for first place was changed to a two-way tie as the Lakers, paced by Warren Gibson's 36 points, knocked off the Hawks 47-34. Bob McCord's 17 points just weren't enough for the losers. In the second game, the Royals crushed the Warriors 60-28. Alan Archambo's 27 points paced the winners. Justin's 18 points kept the losers fairly close.

In the Boys' "A" League, Bob Nuzzo led the Eagles as they moved into a commanding league lead with a hard-fought 61-59 overtime victory over the Terps. Franklin Milasi scored 25 points for the Terps and Nuzzo hit the basket for 24 points. In the second game, the Blue Devils edged the Owls 68-67. Emert and O'Brien each scored 24 points for the winners. Miller scored 34 points for the losers.

Concert Band

Not a very rosy picture, one would think. Nevertheless, the Greenbelt branch continues to hold the county record for popularity. If there is any validity to the "psychological block" suggestion (as there well might be), one wonders to what heights Greenbelt's per capita use of the library might rise if it were not located in a school.

The above quotation continues, "For these reasons it is recommended that a new branch library be built in the Greenbelt area."

Splendid! What more could one ask? Why, then, say that our library's future is doubtful? The answer lies in that single, seemingly innocuous word, "area." The Greenbelt "area" is a vague term, indeed; and Greenbelters who care about their library, support and use it to an unparalleled degree in the county, are worried. The response of the county library system to recent public overtures from Greenbelt has done nothing to allay their fears.

Holiday Reception at GHI

About 70 families of GHI members attended the annual holiday reception which was held by GHI on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 27. Members who joined during the last 2 years were individually invited to come and meet on that occasion their elected Board of Directors and staff members. Many more would probably have attended were it not for the heavy down-pour.
